

Bioresonance Diploma Course

ICNM registered course with CPD points

The Bioresonance course is run by the Academy for Bioregulatory Medicine at the Biomedic Centre. It consists of seven modules, teaching theory and practice of Bioresonance Medicine. Participants are provided with comprehensive study manuals, while lectures are interspersed with visual aids and clinical hours. All lecturers and clinical supervisors are Medical Doctors and experts in Bioresonance and other CAM therapies.

The Bioresonance course is presented within a wider context of Bioregulation, which integrates Allopathic, Homeopathic, Naturopathic, Psychosomatic and Traditional Chinese Medicine.

Although conventional disease-centred and Bioregulatory Health-centred points of view are equally respected, this course moves the focus away from the classical International Classification of Diseases, and approaches a disease as a disruption of cellular bioharmonics and electrophysiology.

The course in Bioresonance Medicine has come to life by joint effort of Dr Bosh and Dr Shakambet, who have postulated the concept of Bioregulatory Medicine in the early 90s, and founded the Academy for Bioregulatory Medicine.

BIORESONANCE MEDICINE

BIORESONANCE MEDICINE

Bioresonance Medicine is a Bioregulatory Medical discipline that aims to regulate human electrophysiology. It is a fast developing medical discipline, as the understanding of medical application of resonance technology has been particularly evolving in recent time.

History of the Bioresonance

The utilisation of electromagnetic forces for medical purposes is as old as the discovery of electricity. Understanding of electrical Bioresonance was prompted in theory and practice by Nikola Tesla. The concept was introduced in the medical world by Rife, whose followers Drs Voll and Schimmel, developed a new trend of electrodermal testing. Morell and Rasch further contributed by eliminating pathological frequencies from the human body. Finally, a new era began with Paul Schmidt and his invention of an electromagnetic antennae and the subtle bio-informatic interface.

After the discovery of Bioresonance, development of quantum physics and understanding of Nuclear Magnetic Resonance, scientists now agree that a cell's nucleus acts as an electrical oscillation circuit, which creates a "life field" that is changing with different states of Health.

Bioresonance Screening

Bioresonance screening filters and removes unhealthy resonance patterns, feeding the healthy vibrations back into the human biological system. This tends to neutralise cellular signalling errors and corrects disturbed homeostasis, with a resulting healing effect.

Diagnostic and therapeutic properties of bioresonance devices are based on the scientific fact that each tissue's natural molecular resonant frequencies are very specifically altered in different illnesses.

Modern computerised Bioresonance equipment detects and corrects tissue electromagnetic oscillations, translating them into specific diagnostic and therapeutic resonance programmes.

The Biomedic Bioresonance Screening Test offers a wide range of energetic assessments in relation to allergies, micro-organisms, nutritional and biochemical deficiencies and toxicities, osteo-muscular misalignments, dental problems, hormonal disturbances, emotional imbalances, blockages along the energetic meridians etc. It also helps to identify specific herbal, homeopathic or biochemical therapeutic agents or remedies, needed to restore optimal balance and Health.

Bioresonance Therapy

Bioresonance Therapy helps diagnosing and treating, not only manifested Health problems, but also early formative stages of not yet manifested illness.

Therapeutic effectiveness of the Bioresonance therapy covers wide spectrum of acute and chronic pathologies, as exposure to healthy bioresonant frequencies tends to improve both inflammatory and degenerative illnesses. The best results are always achieved when patients are prepared to make adjustments to their lifestyle where necessary, for example to change their diet, exercise regiment or sleep pattern.

Being valuable diagnostic and therapeutic tools, Bioresonance devices may be used during your Biomedic Bioregulatory Treatment, to further enhance its therapeutic effectiveness.

Bioresonance Treatment may also be booked as a stand-alone one-hour treatment, to offer a comprehensive screening of various aspects of your Health.

You may choose to discuss those options with your Biomedic Practitioner, or simply book your one hour Bioresonance Treatment on 020 7935 6866, or by e-mailing us at inquiry@biomedic.co.uk
